

Inspiring the first unified generation.

Special
Olympics
Virginia

Global Messenger

James Tench

Years Involved with Special Olympics: 30

Hometown: Mechanicsville, Virginia

Sports: Everything with the exception of tennis.

Educational/Work History: Graduated from Atlee High School, while in school I worked at Goodwill and R-MC. After school, I worked at Moss Supply until I had to leave due to health concerns.

Career Goals: To be able to return to working either a part-time job or volunteer. I also want to get more people, especially younger people, involved in Special Olympics.

People Admired: My mom, Coach Jewel, Casey and Carla.

Why is it important to build a more unified generation? "It is important to build a more unified generation because I want people to see what we can do because we enjoy the things that everyone does. I play unified with softball, basketball, and bowling with the intentions of having fun while being able to play competitively at the level that is fitting for me."

Why is Special Olympics important to you? "It's important to me because of the love and support of everyone and the family

"Special Olympics is my life and my family."

*James Tench
Global Messenger*

*Carla Darby,
Mentor*

Global Messengers are Special Olympics Virginia athletes who help spread the message and vision of the movement as well as the benefits gained by participation in Special Olympics. Global Messengers deliver a powerful message of respect, inclusion, unity and attitudinal change. For more information regarding the Special Olympics Virginia Global Messenger program please contact David Pawlowski at 804-726-3034 or dpawlowski@specialolympicsva.org.